Information Technology Services Launches System Status Page

Information Technology Services (ITS) has launched a new systems status web page that the ETSU and public community can use for monitoring and awareness of systems resources on campus. This status page shows the current state of a major resource as well as any experienced issues or downtime within the last 90 days using red and green color coding.

Please visit status.etsu.edu to access the systems status page. Additionally, you can find links to the systems status page on the ETSU homepage and the ITS Help Desk website.
