ARTA 2957-001 Special Topics Course "Art & Computer", course description: Introduction to Computer Art - This introductory course is focused on hands-on experience with computer and digital tools to create FINE ART. New media is more and more a part of the artist's life regardless of whether they are documenting their art work or directly producing it. During this class we will look at technology as a way to create art. We will explore digital programs such as Photoshop, Illustrators, GarageBand and IMovie as a tool for art making. This class will cover basic operations of the programs for digital art creation. We will learn to edit and enhance photos, sound or animated images. (This is not a conventional Photoshop or Illustrator class)

ARTA 4957-002 Special Topics, title: "The Constructed Image" Course Description: This studio course will explore the role of the constructed image in the context of photography and its common perception (or misperception) as a documentary tool. Students will work collectively inside and outside of the studio on constructions, performances and installations using a wide range of materials which will then be documented using still photography or time-based media. Students from all media are encouraged to enroll as the work will rely heavily on skill sets ranging from sculpture and set design to lighting, theatre and photography.

ARTA 4957-003 Special Topics Course Description "Research of Contemporary Art and Craft" will enhance the understanding of what clay can offer. Students will form their own voice within this exciting sculptural experience. Students will engage in the study of Contemporary Ceramics and learn slab construction and the figurative form through careful reference and reflection. Use of plaster molds, will facilitate the casting of multiples for installation purposes. Special focus will be paid to post fired surfaces as well as underglaze and glaze application.

All students registered for the lab must complete safety training (by watching the ACS safety video and passing the safety quiz). If you have not done this (online) in the last 11 months; go to https://healthsafety.etsu.edu/index/login and login using your complete e-mail address (i.e. doej@etsu.edu) and your ETSU network password. The site will welcome you, and then you will need to click on the "Training Modules" link on the left side of the page. A list will appear telling you which modules you are registered for. Click on the "Take" option next to Chemistry Safety. Please watch the video and then read all the safety information in the module. When complete, click on the "Take Training Quiz" link at the bottom of the module and take the quiz. You must complete and pass the quiz before being allowed in lab. You must complete the safety training by August 31, 2014 or you will be purged from both the laboratory (CHEM 1111) and lecture (CHEM 1110). If you are purged, you will not be able to add the courses back until you have completed the safety training. Further, you will not be allowed in the laboratory until you have added back the courses. All students registered for the lab must complete safety training (by watching the ACS safety video and passing the safety quiz). If you have not done this (online) in the last 11 months; go to <https://healthsafety.etsu.edu/index/login> and login using your complete e-mail address (i.e. doej@etsu.edu) and your ETSU network password. The site will welcome you, and then you will need to click on the "Training Modules" link on the left side of the page. A list will appear telling you which modules you are registered for. Click on the "Take" option next to Chemistry Safety. Please watch the video and then read all the safety information in the module. When complete, click on the "Take Training Quiz" link at the bottom of the module and take the quiz. You must complete and pass the quiz before being allowed in lab. You must complete the safety training by August 31, 2014 or you will be purged from both the laboratory (CHEM 3611) and lecture (CHEM 3750). If you are purged, you will not be able to add the courses back until you have completed the safety training. Further, you will not be allowed in the laboratory until you have added back the courses. The last date to add back the courses is September 5, 2014 at 4:30 p.m.

The Title of CJCR 4950-001 Special Topics course is "Crime and the Life Course" This course examines crime and deviance using developmental and life course perspectives. A key element of this class thus involves learning about the development, stability, and change of criminal behavior throughout different stages of the life course. Specific themes such as criminal trajectories, transitions, and turning points are also discussed in detail.

The Title of CJCR 4957-001 Special Topics course is "Gangs" This course will examine two different populations found in the criminal justice system. The majority of offenders under correctional supervision have used or were currently using drugs at the time of their arrest. This course will examine the scope of the drug problem as well as possible avenues for successfully treating these offenders. At the opposite end of the spectrum are sex offenders. While the number of sex offenders within the system may be comparatively small, the problems that come with managing and successfully treating these offenders are great. This course will explore the possible causes of sex offending, the response of the criminal justice system and techniques for treating these offenders. Objectives The objectives of this course are to introduce students to topics surrounding criminal gangs. The outcomes of this course are: 1.)

Examination of the various types of criminal gangs 2.) Overview of the social process surrounding the involvement in gangs; and 3.) Survey the reasons why gangs exist. 4.) Understand the impact of criminal gangs on the criminal justice system

The majority of offenders under correctional supervision have used or were currently using drugs at the time of their arrest. This course will examine the scope of the drug problem as well as possible avenues for successfully treating these offenders. At the opposite end of the spectrum are sex offenders. While the number of sex offenders within the system may be comparatively small, the problems that come with managing and successfully treating these offenders are great. This course will explore the possible causes of sex offending, the response of the criminal justice system and techniques for treating these offenders. Objectives The objectives of this course are to introduce students to topics surrounding criminal gangs. The outcomes of this course are: 1.)*

Examination of the various types of criminal gangs 2.) Overview of the social process surrounding the involvement in gangs; and 3.) Survey the reasons why gangs exist. 4.) Understand the impact of criminal gangs on the criminal justice system

Note: HIST 3950-003 - This course allows us to briefly and chronologically review several select eras and events that have significantly shaped the process of healing throughout history. We will explore the scientific, social, geographical, political, religious, economic, and public health aspects underlying the challenges presented by various diseases. Key historical changes in defining illness, disease, health, and wellness as well as in developing classification systems of disease will also be examined from the viewpoints of both healers and sufferers.

Note HIST 4957/5957-202 - This course is designed to offer a brief yet encompassing overview of some of these key patterns of change throughout the land we call Scotland as well as in the lives, habitations and wars of the Picts, Celts, Scots, Angles and Britons within those lands and over migrations from the Highlands to regions not far from where we are at the moment. Moving chronologically, we will cover swaths of history focusing on the stories of the people and their lands. Scotland's central role in Enlightenment thought and contributions to the development of many modern academic disciplines and technologies will not be overlooked.

Note HIST 4957/5957-202 - This course is designed to offer a brief yet encompassing overview of some of these key patterns of change throughout the land we call Scotland as well as in the lives, habitations and wars of the Picts, Celts, Scots, Angles and Britons within those lands and over migrations from the Highlands to regions not far from where we are at the moment. Moving chronologically, we will cover swaths of history focusing on the stories of the people and their lands. Scotland's central role in Enlightenment thought and contributions to the development of many modern academic disciplines and technologies will not be overlooked.
