1. What is your organization doing to keep members engaged while distancing socially and taking health precautions?
We're asking our members to work on pitches for films for us to make next semester, sharing resources for low-to-no budget filmmaking capable of being done at home, and as always, asking students to ask for help if they need it with their capstone films or other class projects.
2. What are you doing to recognize and/or provide closure for your graduating members?
We will bid them farewell on our facebook and instagram pages and hopefully be able to promote their final projects there as well.
3. How are you supporting members that may be experiencing financial, mental health:
Currently, we're offering help and resources for class and/or personal projects but we're not in a position to be able to offer much else.
4. Anything else we can help you with or just general questions or concerns?

ETSU Student Activities and Organizations Tele- Engagement Survey Open Ended Responses (Pulled from Survey Monkey)

- 1. What is your organization doing to keep members engaged while distancing socially and taking health precautions?

Currently, we have finished programming for the semester but will be looking at ways to move our programming to Zoom if this continues for an extended period of time. We are also looking at service opportunities that adhere to current CDC recommendations on social distancing and isolation (e.g. PPE supply drives and sewing reusable fabric masks). Most of our membership are in medical school and are continuing their studies or moving into periods of licensure testing, so we are trying to be respectful of the increased work load they have on them as well.
- 2. What are you doing to recognize and/or provide closure for your graduating members?

Traditionally, we have participated in college-based recognition ceremonies, and with the current situation, we are looking for ways at the broader school level to recognize and celebrate our graduating members.
- 3. How are you supporting members that may be experiencing financial, mental health:

We are ensuring that our student members are aware of the virtual counseling options offered through ETSU as well as the College of Medicine and are connecting them with community-based organizations offering different types of support.
- 4. Anything else we can help you with or just general questions or concerns?

I would appreciate ideas on how to integrate lunch-and-learn style meetings with the current public health situation. A fair number of our programming involves hosting lunches for student members to connect with community public health and medical leaders, but with current guidelines, we are not able to provide that style of engagement. Also, will there be guidance on how to use organizational funds with this current corona virus pandemic if we are not able to meet in-person for sometime?

- 1. What is your organization doing to keep members engaged while distancing socially and taking health precautions?
Our executive board and advisors have been conducting zoom meetings and we have been reaching out to our active members. Whether it is by group me, text, or social media we have been reaching out to make sure they are all safe or if they are in need of anything during this time.
- 2. What are you doing to recognize and/or provide closure for your graduating members?
Our executive board has a zoom meeting scheduled with our organization advisors early next week to create a plan for these graduating members.
- 3. How are you supporting members that may be experiencing financial, mental health:
We have been reaching out to these members on a daily basis to make sure they are healthy or if they are in need of anything. We have not yet had members report any problems with their financial, mental, or health but when that arises we have alternatives that may be able to help them.
- 4. Anything else we can help you with or just general questions or concerns?

This semester was more of a planning semester for officers to prepare for the fall. As of right now, no meetings are taking place since most of our meetings are more hands-on (like going on hikes, etc).

2. What are you doing to recognize and/or provide closure for your graduating members?

Thankfully, the only graduating members our organization has are officers. Our primary goal has been to efficiently transition between groups of officers so the organization can continue after the seniors leave.

3. How are you supporting members that may be experiencing financial, mental health:

We are referring members to campus resources like the counseling center and Bucky's food pantry if they mention any of those needs. We have also done our best to become familiar with ETSU policies and the CDC guidelines so we can help reduce uncertainty and fear during this time should members come to us.

2. What are you doing to recognize and/or provide closure for your graduating members?

I am a graduating member. I know that our staff (Cru staff, not employees or students of ETSU) are working to figure out how to do what they can in this new virtual space and I believe that recognizing graduating members will be part of that. Much of Cru's work happens in one-on-one or small group settings, so there is opportunity for closure and processing in those meetings.

3. How are you supporting members that may be experiencing financial, mental health:

Similar to previous answers, Cru has many one-on-one/small group meetings. From that, our Cru staff are working to support students in whatever ways are needed. Cru staff are also working closely with student leaders who are discipling and meeting with other students to assist them as they support fellow students.

Right now we have a GroupMe, but for Community Councils there isn't much to do considering there are no residence to prepare/plan activities for.
2. What are you doing to recognize and/or provide closure for your graduating members?
Currently we have nothing planned for our graduating members.
3. How are you supporting members that may be experiencing financial, mental health:
Our members have not expressed any issues and have seemed to be doing pretty well when we have messaged in the group.
4. Anything else we can help you with or just general questions or concerns?
Thank you for all you do, but CSP Community Council has decided that there is little we can do at this point. Our council's goal is to engage with residence on campus and there isn't the environment for that with the current setup of the university.

- 1. What is your organization doing to keep members engaged while distancing socially and taking health precautions?
We are utilizing official email communications and conducting meetings via Zoom. We have communicated with each other as leaders and with the collective medical school student body about the availability of assistance and how that assistance would be most easily accessed.
- 2. What are you doing to recognize and/or provide closure for your graduating members?
OSR does not have an active role in recognition for graduating medical students. The 2 graduating OSR leaders are being supported individually due to the cancellation of their match ceremony and other social opportunities. Through social media recognition and continued communication, we will continue to lift these two individuals up.
- 3. How are you supporting members that may be experiencing financial, mental health:
Through continued communication via email and Zoom, we are continuing to represent the College of Medicine to faculty and administration. We have passed along many resources from the AAMC and elsewhere on dealing with these difficult circumstances and will continue to serve as liaisons for our student body and each other.
- 4. Anything else we can help you with or just general questions or concerns?

- 1. What is your organization doing to keep members engaged while distancing socially and taking health precautions?
We are definitely all keeping in contact and having club meetings. Most of our events were volunteer based, which is cancelled due to COVID-19, so my team is trying to regroup on how to stay active through the remainder of the semester being online.
- 2. What are you doing to recognize and/or provide closure for your graduating members?
We are publicly acknowledging their service along with offering support to them during this overwhelming scenario of their final semester.
- 3. How are you supporting members that may be experiencing financial, mental health:
We have an open line of discussion for anyone wanting to talk. It could be group based or individual chat based. We have available resources to point them towards if needed.
- 4. Anything else we can help you with or just general questions or concerns?
Truthfully, my organization is very hands-on, service based. It would be nice to be given advice/suggestions on how to move forward with a completely different approach. We need to figure out how to continue group serving while all being separate and isolated. My leadership team is currently discussing this topic. Any comments on the matter would be appreciated.

1. What is your organization doing to keep members engaged while distancing socially and taking health precautions?

We have informed our members that our meetings will be postponed until the fall and that we will notify them as soon as we are able to get our first event launched. We are a brand new group that hasn't even had its first meeting yet, so we will likely "kick-off" in the fall.

2. What are you doing to recognize and/or provide closure for your graduating members?

We do not have any graduating members yet.

3. How are you supporting members that may be experiencing financial, mental health:

The college of medicine is working to address many of these issues. We support those efforts, but because we are so new, we only have 5 founding members, and as of yet, we do not have extensive supportive measures.

4. Anything else we can help you with or just general questions or concerns?

No.
