

East Tennessee State University is a traditionally selective institution located in Johnson City. Undergraduate students represent approximately 78 percent of headcount enrollment; students in graduate and professional programs constitute the remaining 22 percent, a result of programmatic growth and responsiveness to community and workforce needs. The university educates significant numbers of low-income students, adult students, and students pursuing degrees in the basic and clinical health sciences. ETSU awards degrees in over one hundred baccalaureate, masters and doctoral programs, including distinctive interdisciplinary programs. An emphasis on the clinical and health sciences, with respect to doctoral and professional programs supporting research and clinical service delivery, is a distinctive feature of the university. ETSU's enrollment profile displays a clear focus on Tennessee and Southern Appalachia. The university is especially committed to serving rural populations throughout the region and around the world; it does this through a commitment to teaching, research, and service that supports the needs of Tennessee and Southern Appalachia first then sharing that knowledge to improve outcomes in similar communities around the world. ETSU is an R2 Research University according to the Carnegie Foundation classification (Doctoral University: High Research Activity). Additionally, ETSU has a Carnegie Undergraduate Program classification of "Professions plus arts & sciences, high graduate coexistence" and a Graduate Program classification of "Research Doctoral: Professional – dominant."
