Faculty/Staff Achievement

Ms. Allyson Ross received this year's University School Teacher of the Year Award (Most Innovative Teacher).

Ms. Allyson Ross brings music and song to the faculty, staff, and students of University School. Her love of music and theater is demonstrated daily in her work with the students. She brings out the best in students.

The choir and theater students have been hard at work all year long on different performances. She puts countless hours into the program (after school and on weekends) and her positive attitude has spread to the students as evidenced by increased enrollments in the theater program.

What a joy it is to walk into the building in the early morning and hear the sounds of the choir singing. It is an uplifting way to begin the day for faculty and students. The growth of her students has been simply amazing.

She has also been instrumental in helping our school become more "green" in words and in actions. She took the initiative to write a grant that provided us with reusable tableware to use. Her work towards getting the drinking fountain that fills water bottles shows her commitment to recycling and the environment.

The University School Chorus, pictured below, performed at the Clemmer College of Education Awards Ceremony, under the direction of Ms. Ross.

University School Resource Officer, Mr. Cliff Hudson was recognized this school year as an ETSU Featured Employee for the month. The following letter of nomination was received:

I would like to submit Officer Cliff Hudson for recognition as an exemplary employee, but more importantly a fantastic example to our students. He somehow manages to make real connections with 500+ K-12 students and staff at University School. All the kids know and love him. He leads the chess club and took on the gaming club after school as well. I have seen him at ball games in all weather and most importantly always with a smile. His kindness and easy going nature with all our students endears him to our staff and parents. I know that if I have concerns about safety that he will take them very seriously and that gives me immeasurable peace. He goes above and beyond all the time and is the hardest working person at our school.
